Now Trending: 4 Spectacular Properties Near Resort & Recreation Areas

As life shifts into a “new normal,” we continue to recognize current safety standards and concerns as we work to bring you more of what matters now:

As a result, there has been unprecedented sales growth near resort and recreation areas over the past year. Any ranch, hunting, or recreation property near a recreation or resort town brings the property into another investment bracket level, as it offers attributes that are in increasingly high demand.

The trending property attributes include:

Easy access to skiing and other outdoor recreation, plus shopping, and dining venues. In the Southwest and So CO regions we represent, is an added bonus of the ability to be outside, enjoying parks, events, and patios, much of the year.

Another compelling consideration of the region is that it's not the typical vacation getaway that gets over-crowded at peak times of the year. The world-class level amenities and offerings are often available without crowds and congestion.

Properties we represent are available in the following recreational regions:

Southern Colorado, near many ski resort and recreation areas; Taos and Santa Fe, NM; Plus, properties within reach of the mountain resort towns, Cloudcroft and Ruidoso, NM, and close to lively Roswell, NM.

So, sit back with your new dream property list, and think about not just the property possibilities, but also the lifestyle of the region and area amenities, as we recount our top ranches near outdoor-oriented areas and resort towns on the market today.

Whether it's hitting the slopes, or recreation trails by day... and sitting by a chalet fireplace, or out on a patio with a great meal and music at night...

You could be living the dream in no time!
